Drs. Rivers And Neville Honored By MUSC

By Phil Smith

The MUSC Board of Trustees recently recognized two dentists from the Dental College Faculty for excellence in academics and clinical performance. Dr. Jimmy Rivers was recognized as the MUSC Outstanding Clinician Award, and Dr. Brad Neville was honored as one of six Master Teachers for the University. Both doctors have been active instructors and clinicians at the College of Dental Medicine in Charleston.

Dr. Brad Neville is the Director of the Division of Oral Pathology in the Department of Stomatology. He received his bachelor's and dental degrees from West Virginia University and completed a fellowship in oral and maxillofacial pathology and clinical oncology at the Emory School of Dentistry. He joined the faculty at MUSC in 1980, and was a Distinguished University Professor in 2006. During his distinguished career, Neville became internationally recognized for his superb clinical acumen as an oral pathologist, and has published two of the leading textbooks on oral pathology.

Dr. Jimmy Rivers was singled out as the first Outstanding Clinician chosen from the ranks of the Dental College from MUSC. This honor acknowledged Dr. Rivers as best in the population of all clinicians at the Medical University complex. Dr. Rivers is a tenured professor and chair of the Department of Restorative Dentistry. He has been associated with MUSC for more than 35 years as a student, resident, and faculty member. From a staff dentist in the Crown and Bridge Department, he rose through the ranks to the position he holds today. Unlike many department chairmen, Dr. Rivers is active in patient care and maintains a busy clinical practice. He established one of the first undergraduate dental implant clinics in the nation, further enhancing MUSC's reputation as a premier dental school.

Congratulations to Drs. Neville and Rivers, for their commitment to teaching and clinical excellence.

There's Something Strange, and It Don't Look Good! Who You Gonna Call?

"Hello, Dr. Smith, my name is Anna and I have a dental emergency. I have a broken tooth that is bothering me. I think the filling came out. I tried to call my dentist who put this in, but there is no way to contact them. I left a message but no one has called me back. Can you please help me?"

I am sure that many of you have gotten this kind of call. A legitimate emergency from a patient of "somebody's" practice. You may feel inclined to help, but review all of the scenarios that could exist. Are they drug shoppers, or maybe they won't pay, or are they just the kind of person who is inconvenienced by adhering to a Monday thru Thursday schedule?

Well, the issue I see is "who is on call"? I have practiced dentistry for more than thirty years. The majority of that time I was a solo practitioner and kept call almost every day. Whenever I went away from Lexington, I arranged to have a friend cover my practice. We in the dental community became rather adept at sharing call. Matter of fact, in a recent information release on the ADA web-site entitled, "Tips On Finding A Dentist", one of the considerations is how the office handles weekend emergencies.

It seems to me that the trend in current practice is to not "take call" on evenings or weekends. Dentists may not watch their own offices, much less others'. These same dentists make no arrangements for emergencies, or only give it lip service. In conversation with peers, many express an inability to be available 24 / 7. They frequently will tell patients that if it can't wait until Monday then they should go to the emergency room. I know it is easy to respond to a patient of record when they are in a crisis (broken temporary or a dry socket). But what about the infrequent patient? Are they not entitled to the same assurance of protection? I.

At the recent SCDA Session in Myrtle Beach, a Lexington dentist and I were discussing this topic. He indicated that he was unable to find a doctor to watch his practice during the meeting. He felt that if a necessary emergency occurred he would drive home. Now that's dedication!

So as I wind up my thesis, I would request that all dentists consider establishing a viable "call system". Be available to your patient base. If you are asked to cover someone's office, do it. Ask them to watch yours someday. Make plans for holidays and vacations. This goes for orthodontists, pediatric dentists, everyone of us that sees patients. Show your patients and community that you care for them!

President's Message

I remember the first time I went to hear Pete Dawson in Saint Petersburg. I was out of dental school only one month when Dr. Bill Chapman, whom I had associated with, said, "you need to hear Pete," and he set it up for me to go to the class. His reasoning was this, in dentistry, just as in life, the decisions you make can set the tone for who you become and where you end up. "You have to choose," he said, "how you want to use the skills you learned in school." "Don't worry about how many dentists are around you," he said, "there is always room for those who do it right." With only one month's transition time from student to practitioner, the power of those words was not fully understood but I have thought about those words every day since.

Dr. Dawson started to lecture by describing a set of teeth that floated into the dental operatory needing treatment. Funny as it was you could not miss that point that you are here to take care of people not teeth. He then said that he bet if he held a gun to everyone's head and threatened them with consequences for failure, that they could do a terrific crown prep. Why then could it not be so every time?

It stuck me that dentistry is about people, the people you see as patients, the people who work with you as your team, and the people that you become a role model for and mentor to. In the long run what matters is not what you can do but what you do with the gifts you have been given. Zig Ziglar said that a successful man is the one who helps those around him get what "they" are striving for.

I had the privilege of being asked to attend the planning retreat for the South Carolina Dental Assistants Association this past weekend. Their commitment to the patients and to the dental teams they are part of is inspiring. They are looking to the dentists to help them be the best they can be. There is an interesting statistic that shows that assistants, who are members of the Assistant's organization, see themselves as having a career not a job. Linda Miles, who started her career forty years ago as a dental assistant before becoming a world renowned lecturer, said, "today my biggest concern is the number of younger dental professionals who are not encouraged to join organized dentistry to stay enthusiastic and passionate about the profession. If I had a magic wand and could have every dentist not only encourage membership and full participation, but offer to pay their team member's nominal dues each year, dentistry would then not only attract but also would retain these wonderful people."

With the distractions and time demands of today's dental practices, we should not forget to develop and lift up those who are on our team. Then SCDA, the South Carolina Committed Dental Hygienists, the South Carolina Dental Lab Association and MUSC are all part of the team for Patient Care and Oral Health. Building synergy from one another will allow us to grow in all areas of patient care and have a renewed sense of enthusiasm. The SCCDH has renewed its commitment to quality care through the energizing of the Dental Team, providing creative Continuing Education Courses, and advocacy for the best Oral Health Care. The SCDLA has been working for several years to bring legislation that will improve and unify the standards of materials and workmanship across the state. MUSC along with the SCDA has worked to bring the dental education process to the highest level. The new Dental School will be the best facility in the country.

How can we help them obtain what they are striving for? Encouraging membership in the SCDA, SCCDH, SDL Associations can broaden the professionalism throughout the state. The ADA Foundation has Dental Education: Our Legacy-Our Future as its main focus for building the future of Oral Health in America through vigorous action and advocacy for Dental Education. MUSC needs our help through endowments, or gifts but also by giving time and knowledge.

I found out recently that the one area of financial help for the New James B. Edwards College of Dental Medicine that is woefully low is that given by dental corporations. We all are paying customers of the suppliers and other national dental equipment, and insurance plans who don't mind taking our order. We all need to encourage them to step up to the plate. I for one can't imagine why a company would not "want" to equip the "Best Dental Education Facility in the Country" at no cost with the "The Most Modern Technology and Equipment". The payback in publicity would be enormous. Imagine how much we spend with these companies. Don't they want the next generation of dentists to have their sights fixed squarely on "them".

SCDA Promotes New Dentist Mentoring

By Betsy Jabbour

The South Carolina Dental Association is pleased to launch a statewide mentoring program. The initiative is designed for both dental students and new dentists located in South Carolina. In the past, there existed a student mentoring program, which has been expanded in response to the SCDA survey of the state's dental community. It is the hope of the Association to encourage membership and participation from this group, and offer support as the young dentists begin their career.

The New Dentist Committee, the Membership Committee, and several concerned members of the SCDA have worked together with guidelines from the ADA to tailor a viable program for the New Dentists (those practicing 10 years or less) and the Mentor Dentists (those in established practice) in our state. The House of Delegates gave overwhelming support of this effort, and a majority of those in attendance offered to participate in the program.

At some point in our personal or professional life we look for advice and guidance. Mentoring relationships often work both ways between two colleagues. There is much to share from a technological perspective from the New Dentist, and the Mentor Dentist usually has an abundance of experience to impart. The mentoring relationship should be easy, as the pair choose convenient times and activities to strengthen the bond.

The SCDA is actively recruiting dentists interested in serving as a mentor to a new dentist or dental student. The Association website (www.scdadental.org) offers opportunity to enroll for this important and rewarding venture. Making the decision to participate can ensure the continuance of a solid profession to serve the citizens of the Palmetto State, and secure successful practice for new dentists.

Say "Aahhh."

Not because we want you to open wide, but because that's how you'll feel after choosing Dental 360 to manage your financial, accounting and tax needs.

Did you know that at least 50% of all dentists who have a retirement plan are in the wrong plan? In fact, most financial observers believe that less than 10% of dentists actually reach the age of 65 with the ability to retire. Proper tax and financial planning has been shown to increase net disposable income by as much as 15% to 20%. Preplanning the use of this increase is the key to financial independence. We like to call it "pre-allocation of found money."

Dental 360 specializes in the dental field. With more than 30 years of experience working with dentists in South Carolina, we understand the big picture and can help you prepare for the unique financial challenges you face. We'll develop a financial game plan to get you on the path to success in areas such as:

- Practice accounting
- Tax planning and preparation
- Payroll service

- Retirement plan design and administration
- Practice management such as scheduling, billing and collecting, and fee analysis
- Investment management
- New practice start-up

1908 Pickens County Physician's Fees

By Phil Smith

A patient recently brought me a copy of a service and fee list from the physicians of Pickens County. I am unsure whether this represented a central medical facility, or a stated fee schedule endorsed and publicized by the medical community. Understand that this was dated 1908, and the procedures included were rather diverse. I hope that you find these interesting:

- Rx writing $0.50
- Office consultation $1.00
- Visits in Town $1.50
- Visits in town at night $2.50
- Normal Labor / delivery $10.00
- Finger or toe amputation $5.00
- Forearm or leg amputation $30.00
- Jaw fracture $20.00
- Lancing abscess $1.00
- Extracting tooth $0.50
- Excising tumor $5.00
- CLERGY CHARGED SAME AS OTHERS

In consideration of these one hundred year old fees, my office visit charge seems rather large.

FDA Issues Toothpaste Warning

By Phil Smith

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration warned consumers to avoid using tubes of toothpaste labeled as made in China, and issued an important alert to prevent toothpaste containing the poisonous chemical diethylene glycol (DEG) from entering the United States. DEG is used in antifreeze and as a solvent. Out of an abundance of caution, the FDA suggests that consumers discontinue use and dispose of these products.

There are no reported incidents of poisonings from toothpastes containing DEG. However, the FDA is concerned about potential risks from chronic exposure to DEG, and to certain populations with compromised health issues. DEG has a low but meaningful threat to children, elderly, and to patients with liver or kidney disease.

FDA has identified the following brands of toothpaste from China that contain DEG and are included in the important alert: Cooldent Fluoride; Cooldent Spearmint; Cooldent ICE; Dr. Cool Everfresh Toothpaste; Superdent Toothpaste; Cleanright Toothpaste; Oralmax Extreme; Oral Bright Fresh Spearmint Flavor; Bright Max Peppermint Flavor; ShiR Fresh Mint Fluoride Paste; DentaPro; DentaKleen; and DentaKleen Junior. Manufacturers of these products are: Goldcredit International Enterprises Limited; Goldcredit International Trading Company Limited; and Suzhou City Jinmao Daily Chemicals Company Limited. The products typically are sold at low-cost, "bargain" retail outlets.

Consumers can report adverse reactions or quality problems experienced with the use of these products to FDA's MedWatch Adverse Event Reporting Program: www.fda.gov/medwatch/report.htm .

SCDA Bulletin

This is the first month where the bulletin will be sent totally electronically rather than sent electronically and hard mail. This move, approved by the Board last year was the result of feedback from the SCDA member survey and information received by the Strategic Planning Task Force. I believe your Association has taken a major step forward into the age of technology. I know this move may be hard to get use to at first, but the time and money saved will pay the SCDA many dividends down the road. Ms. Jennifer Haworth has taken this project on from the outset and in my opinion has created an online bulletin that is second to none when compared to others sent from other associations across the state. On another note, Ms. Haworth is also in the process of completing the new SCDA directory and you should receive this publication no later than August 15.

Mr. Phil Latham
Executive Director

MEDICAID

The Medicaid Task Force headed by Chair Jim Mercer just completed another meeting discussing many issues facing dentists and Medicaid. The Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) who runs the SC Dental Medicaid Program has sent out numerous bulletins relating to the new ADA Dental Claim form and the National Provider Identification (NPI) number.

In last months Bulletin, I encouraged each of you to obtain your NPI number if you had not done so. I strongly encourage you this month to provide that number to the DHHS. They have a simple form for you to complete notifying them of your NPI number. That form can be accessed at:

<https://SECURE.DHHS.STATE.SC.US/NPI/INDEX.ASP>

In other issues discussed at the Medicaid Task Force meeting included:

- *DHHS covering Fluoride Varnish. This new procedure will require more research and discussion, but the topic is being discussed;

- *South Carolina may begin Medicaid coverage for those that are at the 200% poverty level which is up from the current 150% of poverty level. This proviso still has to be approved by the South Carolina legislators;

- *DHHS has contracted with Qualis Health for a new quality improvement organization. As a Medicaid provider, you would have received a bulletin, dated May 21, 2007, on this subject.

I would like to thank Dr. Mercer and all of the task force members for their work and dedication to this very important task force.

CONVENTION

The SCDA 138th Annual Convention is behind us and now the committee and planner have turned their attention to the Myrtle Beach Convention Center for the 2008 meeting. The Sheraton Myrtle Beach which is connected to the convention center will be housing our group. The Convention Center will provide a family friendly atmosphere with new additions to Broadway at the Beach. President Carter Brown along with his committee has planned an excellent meeting. I encourage you to go ahead and mark the dates on your calendar April 23rd through 26th.

In related news, I would like to point out some very interesting facts regarding the convention and registration. In 2006, the SCDA contracted with a new outside entity to handle the registration process. That same group was used again this year. Statistics are in and 1,130 of the 2,157 who attended the meeting registered online through the SCDA website. This is up from 380 who registered on line for the 2006 meeting. Like anything else, when changes are made, issues have to be worked out. Ms. Laura Jordan, convention planner, has already met with the outside registration firm to discuss and make things even better for next years registration process.

"I strongly encourage you this month to provide (your NPI Number) to the DHHS."

HOW TO INCREASE TREATMENT ACCEPTANCE

In recent years there have been a couple of studies done that show how patient financing impacts the patient's acceptance of dental treatments. One study done in 2005 by the Academy of Dental CPA's, found that using CareCredit's patient financing program increased production within the dental practice by an average of 25.3%.

Of those patients polled in this study, 74% of them said that financing made receiving dental treatments actually a possibility. 78% of patients said that CareCredit's no interest financing influenced them to receive the entire recommended treatment and 66% said that using patient financing through CareCredit meant that they were more likely to keep their appointments as well, instead of simply becoming another no-show.

6 million patients have already used CareCredit to receive the treatments that they have needed or wanted.

The SCDA has partnered with CareCredit to offer patient financing to SCDA members at a reduced enrollment rate, so now you too can increase treatment acceptance and lower potential collections by offering CareCredit's patient financing program in your practice.
